FEDERATION

Catholic Societies of Kentucky Hold Their Second Annual Convention.

Addressed by Rev. Father Richard Barrett and Secretary Matre.

Reports Received Show Movement is Gaining Strength in the State.

DR. P. S. CLARK ELECTED PRESIDENT

The Kentucky State Federation of Catholic Societies met in annual convention last Sunday afternoon in the parlors of the Louisville Hotel. From the start it was a business session and was harmonious throughout. State President Witte presided and in his report stated the obstacles that had confronted his administration in various sections of the State. The convention was a representative one, delegates being present from various parts of the State not heretofore represented. Credentials were received and the following delegates seated:

Anthony J. Sheridan, Louisville; Gerald J. Connolly, Newport; John Packler, Louisville; Leo Hayden, Springfield; Joseph Landorf, Louisville; Steve Clark, Paducah; Dr. Francis S. Clark, Louisville; H. Dickman, Bellvue; James W. Noonan, Louisville; Judge H. W. Rives, Lebanon; J. P. Brownfield, Louisville; Judge Michael T. Shine, Covington; Michael Reichert, Louisville; Eugene J. Cooney, Louisville; H. B. Huedfeld, Covington; Miss Rena Weisenberg, Louisville; Miss Mary E. Sheridan, Louisville; Thomas J. Connolly, Newport; James Coleman, Louisville; William M. Higgins, Louisville; Dr. D. M. Casey, Carrollton; Clarence H. Zook, Louisville; William O'Connor, Louisville; C. D. Witte, Dayton; Dr. J. W. Fowler, Louisville; Con J. Ford, Louisville; Thomas Tobin, Louisville; R. J. Doller, Louisville.

They represented nearly all the national organizations composed of Catholics. After the reading of the minutes by Secretary Thomas Connolly the Rev. Richard Barrett, C. P., was introduced and delivered an eloquent address, of which a synopsis is given in this issue.

National Secretary Anthony Matre, of Cincinnati, followed in an able address, in which he explained the aims and purposes of the federation movement, what it has done, what it now is and what it expects to do in the future. Where there is union, he said, there is results. He referred briefly to the situation in Germany and the work of the Center party and to the disunion existing in France. He then passed over the work of the American Federation in the Philippines, what had been accomplished for the Catholic Indians and the position taken on the school and divorce laws. Besides having the approval of the Holy Father the Federation was sustained by almost the entire American hierarchy. Politics are expressly eliminated, and the one who would use the body for political gain would be the worst defeated candidate who ever ran. The Federation comprises the Crusaders of the twentieth century, going forth solely for the honor and glory of God. Secretary Matre's remarks were generously applauded.

President Witte announced the following committees, after which a short recess was taken:

Constitution—Gerald Connolly, Judge Michael Shine, Miss Rena Weisenberg, Steve Clark and William M. Higgins.

Resolutions—Dr. J. W. Fowler, Leo Hayden, H. Dickman, James B. Kelly and Thomas Tobin.

Finance—William O'Connor, H. B. Huedfeld, Miss Mary Sheridan, Joseph Landorf and Michael Reichert.

Upon reassembling the Committee on Constitution was the first to report. But few changes were recommended, the most important being that hereafter parishes may be represented from counties where there is no federation. The call for a State convention must be issued sixty days in advance of the meeting of the national body. County Federations will be entitled to one delegate for every five hundred members, and where no provision is made by the State body the laws of the National Federation will govern.

Dr. Fowler reported resolutions reaffirming the work of the Atlantic City convention and congratulating the national body on its great accomplishments during the past year. Other resolutions urge County Federations to heartily support and encourage the society for the spread of faith among the Indians, and also humbly beg the support of the Bishop and clergy. The Kentucky Irish American and the Glauhenbott were named the official organs for Kentucky.

Owing to the near approach of the national convention County Federations were authorized to select delegates to Detroit, one for every 1,000 represented.

The last business was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

President—Dr. Francis S. Clark, Louisville.

First Vice President—Dr. D. M. Casey, Carrollton.

Second Vice President—Judge H. W. Rives, Lebanon.

Marshal—H. B. Huedfeld, Covington.

GEORGE J. BUTLER.
Kentuckian Honored at the Hibernian National Convention.

Secretary—Anthony J. Sheridan, Louisville.
Treasurer—Miss Mary Sheridan, Louisville.

After selecting this city as the place for holding the next State convention and thanking the Louisville Hotel for courtesies extended the convention adjourned. In another issue the Kentucky Irish American may publish the constitution in full. Those who have been interested in the Kentucky Federation are to be congratulated upon the outcome of the convention.

LIVELY TIME

Given the Candidates Initiated Wednesday Evening by Division Four.

Quite a large attendance was present at the meeting of Division 4 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, a great many there evincing quite an interest in several of the candidates to be initiated. The following received the degrees: Wm. Shaw, Jr., James Houlihan, Martin Leahy, James McKiernan, Harry Crotty, Will Hanrahan, Mike Meagher and Will Broderick. After the initiation the new members were willing to acknowledge that they had received a warm reception all right.

State Secretary Joseph P. McGinn, on behalf of the State Board, invited the members of Division 4, their wives and sisters and gentlemen and lady friends to attend the reception arranged for the new National Director, George J. Butler, Thursday evening. Before closing the meeting President Hennessey spoke feelingly of the loss the division had sustained through the death of James A. Ross, and led the division in prayer for the repose of his soul. Joseph P. McGinn, John J. Barry and Dr. Frank Norton drew up the following resolutions on the death of Mr. Ross:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our worthy friend and brother, James A. Ross, and

Whereas, Division 4, A. O. H., recognizing its loss and desiring to pay a just tribute to the virtues of our deceased brother; therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of a Divine Providence, nevertheless we sincerely mourn the loss of our deceased friend and brother.

Resolved, That in the death of James A. Ross the order loses an active and earnest worker, a member faithful to his church, an honest and respected citizen and a friend and companion who was dear to us all.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our meeting, a copy sent to the bereaved family, a copy published in the Kentucky Irish American; and be it further

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days and that we have five masses said for the repose of his soul.

JOS. P. MCGINN,
JOHN J. BARRY,
DR. F. B. NORTON,
COMMITTEE.

HAPPY UNION.

A wedding ceremony that attracted a large gathering of friends and relatives of the contracting parties was that solemnized at St. Patrick's church Wednesday morning with nuptial high mass, Very Rev. Vicar General Cronin being the officiating clergyman. It was the union of Charles Finnegan and Miss Beatrice Lincoln, both well known and popular in society circles. The bride has been a prominent member of St. Patrick's choir, and in her honor an elaborate musical programme and wedding march was arranged by Prof. Perry, and special numbers were rendered by Misses King and Corcoran and Messrs. Hodapp, Yenner and Eschrich. The groom is a successful grocer at Nineteenth and Owen streets. After the wedding breakfast and festivities the happy couple left for St. Louis and the World's Fair, and on their return will be at home to their friends at 344 Nineteenth street.

LAWN PETE.

The Clifton-Crescent Club announces its next lawn fete for Thursday, August 11. It will be given on Father White's lawn, one of the most delightful spots in Clifton. Those heretofore given have been so enjoyable and successful that this announcement alone should suffice to bring out a large attendance.

VINCENTIANS

Did Honor to Their Church and Themselves Last Sunday.

Great Body of Men Visited St. Brigid's and Received Sacrament.

Cordial Greeting by Father Connolly and Ladies of the Parish.

FATHER DEPPEN'S ELOQUENT SERMON

Sunday last will long be remembered by Vincentians and the good people of St. Brigid's parish as one of the most glorious days in the local history of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Day broke forth bright and clear, and by 7 o'clock the vicinity of the handsome Highland church was thronged with devout Catholic men who had gathered to do honor to their religion, their patron saint and themselves. Men came from the remotest parts of the city, and when Rev. Father Honnich, O. F. M., ascended the altar to begin the mass every inch of available space was occupied. A most enjoyable feature was the elegantly prepared breakfast furnished by the ladies of the parish immediately after the mass, which was graciously served and heartily enjoyed by the three hundred and thirty men who had just come fasting from the holy table. Within the sanctuary besides the celebrant of the mass were Very Rev. Louis Deppen and Fathers Bachmann and Connolly. After the gospel the pastor, Rev. Henry Connolly, welcomed the assembled hosts and in the following happy manner introduced Rev. Father Deppen, who preached the sermon that follows below:

My dear brothers of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, I can not permit this blessed occasion to pass by without extending to you in my own name and in the name of the whole congregation a most sincere and most hearty welcome to our church. I not only wish to welcome you, but I wish to return to you my most sincere, my most heartfelt thanks for the high honor which you are conferring upon us by your presence here this morning. Believe me when I tell you that we of St. Brigid's are more in your hands than you are in our hands this morning. Believe me when I tell you that it is not so much as you are surrendering yourselves to us as it is we of St. Brigid's who are surrendering absolutely and unconditionally to you. Everything that we have is yours, both in a spiritual way and, I might say, in a temporal way. The ladies of the congregation will feel highly honored, my dear brothers, if you can wait but a few minutes after the service so that, before you retire to your homes they may have an opportunity of extending to you some little hospitality. I will now make way for a reverend and dear friend, Very Reverend Father Deppen, whom I especially invited to be present and deliver the address on this occasion, and who has most graciously consented to do so, a clergyman who, as we all know, has for years, in season and out of season, manifested his loyalty and devotion toward the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Father Deppen then ascended the altar and said in part:

I will not detain you long, my dear brothers. I welcome you in the name of this good pastor and his endeared flock. It is written, "How beautiful it is when the brethren live together and come together in unity," and our blessed Lord himself has said "that where two or more are gathered together in my name, behold I am in the midst of them," and He is with us this morning. He is with us not only on the altar, but is seated between each two of you, my brothers. Now I understand this occasion, and it were wrong in me to detain you more than a few moments. I know your duties, I know the hour of the morning. I know that you are fasting. I know that you are about to be refreshed with a dear breakfast, the body and blood of Jesus Christ. I know that you have to get home to your duties, and, with God's help, I shall not detain you but a few minutes, although they say I preach very long, yet, with the increase of years, I hope that I am becoming better in that respect.

I can not say to you how delighted I am to see this solid phalanx, this solid body of Vincentians, before me this morning. This church which, after all, is not as small as it may appear, but will hold many, is filled, I may say to its most capacity, and filled by whom?—filled by the friends of our Lord Jesus Christ. Say what you will, my dear brethren, I have said it before, there is no association in the church that can compare in any way to that of St. Vincent de Paul. There is no society that has the benediction and the blessing of God upon it as has the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. It is a society that brings a reward seven-fold in this world, and I promise you, and God has promised you, that the reward will be a hundred-fold hereafter. What is the society but an humble organization? What is the church but humility? What are the great works of the church but humble works? What are the characteristics of St. Vincent de

Paul's society but lowliness, humility and self-denial? God looks for little things—He does not look for the great things. Have you ever thought of this, my brethren? Have you ever noticed that the special blessing of the Deity rests upon the humble and the lowly? Look into the church—see the humble Society of St. Francis—one that has developed a magnificent growth and has the blessing of God. Look at the Little Sisters of the Poor, that had no existence in the life of some of you present—some of you were already in manhood's estate when there was established that society, and see today what these poor little women have done. But, have they done it? No, it is Jesus Christ, who liveth and worketh in them that has done it. We have them in this city, as we have them in perhaps three hundred other places, some with institutions larger proportionately than we have here. Whence comes this? Is it not the mustard seed? Who who have traveled, especially in the church, have you ever found that special graces have been coupled with great Cathedral. Go into the different shrines set apart by God—the shrines of the Blessed Virgin—do you find these in noted places? Do you find the statues erected at these shrines are works of art? Look at the shrine at Loretto, a little black ebony statue, and yet the world could not purchase those statues. Our Blessed Lord did not go to the Louvre at Paris and single out Marillo's Immaculate Conception nor into the galleries at Florence, or in Rome, and single out Michael Angelo's pictures of the Madonna, or of our Saviour—why? Because God loves the humble and the lowly, He loves the poor—He loves the widow's mite.

I will ask you to remember the day our Lord fed the multitude with the loaves and fishes. After they had eaten what did He say? "Gather up the fragments lest they be lost." He had more interest in the fragments than He had in the multiplication of the loaves and fishes. So in the temple, when the people came in and deposited their offerings, He did not praise the wealthy. No, He praised the poor widow who came with her mite. "She has given more," He said. So it is in every other thing, the humble, the lowly, whom God raises up, and so it is in the church. It is the poor nun, the poor, humble priest, like St. Vincent de Paul, whom He lifts up and makes their great instruments of lasting work. He made him the founder of the Sisters of Charity and of your society.

From all this I would have you derive a meditation that God blesses the lowly and the humble. He blesses our humble efforts, He blesses our unseen works, the works of the right hand that the left is not acquainted with. So it is with our works. Have you any worldly profit from being a member of the St. Vincent de Paul Society? No, and yet you have. You receive already seven-fold. It is not the society that brings to you worldly honor, but, on the contrary, it brings the benediction of God upon you, upon your wife, upon your children, upon your brothers and sisters. As sure as God is God so sure, my brothers, will God give you, if you are humble and lowly and mild not what the world does, if you give your little alma in secret, that alma will bring to you and your children, to your wife and to all of you seven-fold blessings in this world and will bring you to life everlasting.

Now, in conclusion, I wish but to say one word to you to call to your minds another word of our Lord. Speaking of the GRAND COUNCIL.

Lexington Preparing For Entertainment of Young Men's Institute.

Barry Council, Y. M. I., of Lexington, has almost completed arrangements for the entertainment of the Grand Council of the Kentucky Jurisdiction, which will hold a three days' session in the Bluegrass capital, beginning August 21. Barry Council has made great strides during the past year, bringing its membership up to 250. A big initiation in the morning, a ball game in the afternoon and reception and car ride will be features of the first day, to be followed during the convention by a banquet and other entertainments. This council is now one of the largest in the jurisdiction, therefore the members have placed John Shannon, a young lawyer of experience and ability, in nomination for Grand Secretary. He has been a hard worker among the young men of Lexington and is well known to the delegates. Last year he declined the nomination in order that the incumbent might receive an endorsement, but now his friends say he must run for the position, arguing that the offices should be more evenly distributed throughout the jurisdiction.

APPOINTED DELEGATES.

President Kelly has appointed Dr. J. W. Fowler and Dr. F. S. Clark delegates to represent the Jefferson County Federation in the national convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, which opens Tuesday in Detroit. Dr. Fowler is a member of the National Executive Committee, and Dr. Clark is President of the Kentucky State Federation.

CONDITIONS

That Must Be Observed For Success of the Catholic Federation.

Very Rev. Richard Barrett's Address at State Convention.

Much Depends Upon Degree of Knowledge Its Friends Possess.

LOOKING TOWARD DISTANT FUTURE

Readers of the Kentucky Irish American will read with no little interest the eloquent utterances of Very Rev. Richard Barrett, C. P., delivered before the delegates to the Federation convention Sunday afternoon. At its conclusion the reverend gentleman was given enthusiastic applause and thanked by the delegates for his words of wisdom. From Father Barrett's remarks we take the following:

Ladies and Gentlemen: It is simply impossible for me to give expression to my appreciation of the honor conferred upon me in the invitation to address a representative body of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, for it is an honor which some of the highest ecclesiastical dignitaries of the country have been proud to accept. Wherefore I thank your committee, and particularly your zealous co-laborer, Dr. Clarke, through whose interest in your work and kindness to me such an honor has been conferred upon me. In considering what shape my very brief address should take I deemed it altogether superfluous even to attempt to explain the objects and purposes of Catholic federation or to expatiate on the tangible results already achieved by the efforts of this united Catholic body. Indeed this would be for me all the more superfluous, as the esteemed National Secretary is present with us, who will, I am sure, lay before you the aims and the striking results already secured by the united efforts of Catholic federation, and this he will do with a force and persuasion that I consider myself incapable of. Let me, then, rather peer into the near as well as the distant future, and conjuring up the unlimited possibilities which lie stretched before the mental vision of Catholic federation, dwell upon the means of rendering those possibilities actualities by presenting for your consideration what I shall call the keynote or secret of federation's success.

In the first place all success in the moral, intellectual and even physical order, as far as men or societies of men are in question, depends in great measure upon the knowledge they possess of the end or object sought to be attained. You can not discover the successful man in any line of business of the present day and age who has not a thorough knowledge of his business and of all things that pertain thereto. In fact, failure in any undertaking is in most cases due to or can be readily traced to ignorance of some details of that undertaking. The same principle holds in every walk in life, and therefore it applies to religion. Why is it that in the past much more so than in the present lecturers and even ministers of the Gospel thought they were working for God when they vilified the church? Why is it that the open and public attacks on the true religion of Christ are not now so frequently heard or read as in the past? The only reason that can be assigned is that men and women are not now so ignorant of the church and her teachings as they were in time gone by. Still, again, why is it that some hold aloof from federation? Is it not because they have failed to grasp the real purpose of federation—because they are in some measure ignorant of its aims? In fine, ignorance is the foe of all true progress, ignorance is the enemy of all real advance, and ignorance on the part of our own people as well as those outside the fold is the only real foe that our religion has to fear. Ignorance therefore is the only real foe to Catholic federation. Hence if the federation of Catholic societies is to be the success predicted for it, then it follows that the entire body as such, and each individual who has at heart the interests of that body, must be equipped, and thoroughly equipped, with every detail of knowledge that renders a member fully conversant with all that federation stands pledged to.

But there is required besides this what I would call a certain boldness in using the lawful means to attain the end of Catholic federation. The world admires the man who has the courage to come to the front and declare his purposes and assign the reasons for his cause. Yes, the world admires boldness in the man who advocates even a cause that is unjust, and even the criminal who has the boldness and fearlessness of his methods will sometimes win applause. Oh, then, if this be true, should we not be bold and fearless in championing a cause and religion that rests upon the eternal principles of eternal justice? Shall we fear to go before the world, who we advocate a cause that is the greatest and grandest a man can enter into and uphold? Wherefore the second requisite in the keynote of federation's success is a manly courage and fearlessness in using every lawful means to attain our ends. There is, however, a third condition to success no less necessary than the two already mentioned, and this is a determination to succeed. Without persistence in advocating your cause, without a strong determination to achieve, the knowledge of and fearlessness in reaching out after the objects of federation will be of no avail. This determination is necessary to sweep aside every obstacle in federation's path, to surmount the difficulties that must be encountered in every good cause, and to remove the hindrances that will be met with here and there, and when least expected, and which are calculated to deter a man from all further efforts to success. Here, then, are the means necessary to success. They constitute the keynote, they form the secret of federation's success. Let me say, in conclusion, that I am heart and soul with Catholic federation, and that even as it has won by its conservative and successful career the blessing of our Holy Father, of most of the Archbishops and Bishops of the country, so let me express the hope that as federation has succeeded in other States beyond all expectation, so may Catholic federation succeed in the "old Kentucky home" and be a bright gem in the crown of that State that has done so much for Catholicity.

JAMES A. ROSS.
Whole Community Shocked When His Death Was Announced.

TEBEAU AS A PROPHET.

What Our Popular Base Ball Manager Predicted and the Result.

The Kentucky Irish American has never posed as a prophet in regard to the base ball situation, but we desire to call attention to the prediction we made some time since that the Louisville team could not very well develop into pennant winners under the present management. In comparison we desire to call attention to the prediction made by Manager Tebeau during June, and loudly heralded forth by the daily sporting writers, that his team would be fighting for the pennant flag by July 4, which is not borne out by the present standing, they having a hard time holding fourth place. Incidentally it might be stated that our cast-off, Capt. Clymer, has had the Columbus team in first or second place all season.

The case of Pitcher Wright has only served to show what we also predicted—that Tebeau's hold on the local sporting writers was complete. On account of the good form he has been displaying Wright asked for a raise in salary, which being refused him he took the great American privilege of quitting. The next day all of the sporting writers accused Wright of being conceited, etc., without hearing his version of the case at all, the amateur writer on the Times being a chief offender, he exerting himself in that respect so as to curry favor with Tebeau. When we hear of the treatment accorded Hart and Stormswort we do not wonder at any of the players wanting to leave and Dunkle refusing to come to Louisville.

PROVED FATAL.

The Rev. Father P. A. O'Reilly, rector of St. Paul's church, Birmingham, Ala., was thrown from a horse last week while attending the encampment of the Alabama National Guard at Birmingham. He was picked up and every attention given him. For a few days it was thought his injuries were not serious, but his condition grew worse and he died at an early hour Thursday morning. Father O'Reilly was one of the most popular priests in the Mobile diocese, and in Birmingham he was a great favorite with all classes of people.

WELCOME VISITOR.

Dr. W. J. McCrann, formerly of this city, but now of Omaha, who has been spending the week with Louisville friends and relatives, was a welcome visitor to the Kentucky Irish American office Tuesday. Before leaving for the West Dr. McCrann was an active and prominent figure in local Irish and Catholic affairs, and as he always represents Nebraska at the Hibernian national conventions it is evident that his interest in his fellow-countrymen continues. His Louisville friends were all glad to again meet him and learn that, besides being regarded one of the leading physicians of Nebraska, he has amassed a nice fortune.

Dr. McCrann was a guest at the reception given George Butler on Thursday night. His address to his friends was happy and patriotic and revived pleasant memories of the past.

ARMAGH

Cathedral Consecrated With Imposing Ceremonies Last Sunday.

Most Important Happening Ireland Has Witnessed For Years.

Lasting Monument to Irish Cardinal, Bishops, Priests and People.

TOOK SIXTY YEARS FOR ERECTION

The solemn consecration and reopening of St. Patrick's new and magnificent Cathedral, the Prematual Sec of Ireland, the most important happening of the Catholic church in the Isle of Saints and Scholars in many years, occurred last Sunday with most imposing ceremonies. Cardinal Logue, who on that day celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration as Bishop of Raphoe, officiated at the ceremony proper, while Archbishop Walsh, of Dublin, pontificated at the high mass, and Archbishop Healy, of Tuam, preached the consecration sermon. Among the distinguished prelates assisting in the sanctuary were Cardinal Vannutelli, who came especially from Rome to represent Pius X.; Archbishop Bourne, of Westminster, and the Bishops of Liverpool, Birmingham, Portsmouth and Aberdeen, together with hundreds of clergymen from every part of the world, the United States, Canada and Australia furnishing a very large number. The Duke and Duchess of Norfolk and several members of the British nobility also attended the ceremony, which surpassed in splendor anything of the kind seen before in Ireland.

Sixty years have passed since the foundations of the Cathedral were laid in 1840 by Dr. Croll, then Archbishop. Under his successor, Dr. Dixon, the work was continued, and a great hazard given in 1865 cleared more than $35,000 and enabled the church authorities to place a roof on the building, under the supervision of a young Dublin architect named McCarthy, Mr. Duff, the original architect, having died. Archbishop McGettigan continued the work, until in August, 1873, he was able solemnly to dedicate the new temple. More than one hundred thousand persons attended the ceremony, and twenty prelates, headed by the late Cardinal Cullen, were present in the sanctuary, where the preacher for the occasion was the celebrated Dominican orator, Rev. Thomas Burke, famous for his lectures and sermons all over the world.

After the death of Dr. McGettigan, in 1887, Monsignor Logue, who had been Coadjutor a few months previously, succeeded him and set to work to pay off the heavy debt left by his predecessor and finish the building, whose interior decorations were of such fine character that he ordered them entirely renewed, importing the best ecclesiastical art works from Italy and France. In 1893 he was made a Cardinal by the late Pope, and this additional dignity enabled him to raise successfully the large sum needed for the work.

It was not, however, till the close of the year 1899 that His Eminence, judging the time ripe for further efforts, issued a pastoral letter on the "National Cathedral" addressed to all the churches in Ireland and was enabled to start the famous and popular National Cathedral bazaar, which lasted two years, and which raised immense sums toward the work of finishing the building.

In 1901 the Cathedral was closed to worshippers and the decoration of its interior was pushed rapidly along until the present time, when it was decided to proceed to the solemn consecration of the building on the very day on which occurred the silver jubilee of the Cardinal Primate's episcopal consecration.

It was principally through the untiring efforts of Rev. John Quinn, now Canon of Magherafelt, and of his successor, Rev. Michael Quinn, the present administrator, that much of the money was raised. For four years the work of completing and decorating the interior has been in progress under the supervision and in accordance with the plans of the most eminent architects of Ireland. The most skilled artists have been employed in the work with such success that the perfection of the altars, mosaics, screen pulpit and organ has evoked the admiration of even the most critical visitors. The total cost of the building is placed at two million and a half dollars, which have been collected all over the world.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

President Shelley presided over the meeting of Mackin Council Tuesday night, when several applications were received and referred. There was only routine business, the most important action relating to the approaching election for Grand officers. Mackin instructed its three delegates, Frank Adams, Fred Herp and Frank Murphy, to try and have George Lautz, now holding the office of Grand Secretary, elected for another term. Charles Raily reported everybody anxious for Tuesday to arrive, when they would all join in the basket picnic at Sugar Grove.

MATT O'DOHERTY FOR JUDGE.

There is a vacancy in the Common Pleas division of the Circuit Court on account of the death of Judge Upton W. Muir. It is with Gov. Beckham to make the appointment. Judge Matt O'Doherty, who has heretofore graced the bench in this court, is urged for the vacancy. Judge O'Doherty declined to accept the position when it was offered to him before because of duties which he considered he owed to his many clients. It is understood that he would accept the Judgeship now, and his friends are urging his appointment.

Judge O'Doherty is a lawyer of distinguished ability and would grace any position on the bench, either as Chancellor or Judge. If he is appointed to fill the vacancy it is understood Judge O'Doherty will be willing to stand for election before the people in November or at any other time.

The Kentucky Irish American urges the appointment of Judge O'Doherty not on account of his nationality or his religion, but on his fitness.

HONORS FOR GEORGE BUTLER.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians probably do more charity work than any other Catholic benevolent organization in this country. The election of Mr. George J. Butler as one of the Board of Directors of the national body is a high honor and will do the order a great deal of good in Louisville and Kentucky. The reception given in honor of Mr. Butler's election by the local members of the order and by the Ladies' Auxiliary on Thursday night demonstrated in a striking way how highly the A. O. H. in Louisville and vicinity appreciated the action of the national convention. Mr. Butler is a high class man and stands high in the community as a business man and a citizen.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAWS.

Whenever there is a tragedy like that in which R. Lee Suter, of the Board of Public Safety, lost his life while with a crowd of carousing men and women at a fishing camp, there is a storm of indignation for a few days and then it is all forgotten. The preachers deliver sermons from their pulpits and loudly call for reform and the newspapers in opposition to the administration get very indignant for a few days, but within a week or ten days the lesson of the tragedy is lost sight of. There is just as much carrying of concealed deadly weapons now as there was before July 3, when Suter was killed, and there are probably as many men of alleged respectability associating with disreputable women as there ever was.

Reforms are not accomplished in a day. It is not the fault of the city administration that men carry concealed deadly weapons or associate with disreputable women. Of course it is the duty of the police department to see that the law prohibiting the carrying of concealed deadly weapons is enforced, but the evil is more deep-seated. Public sentiment should be aroused against the practice. It should be made odious in the sight of all men for citizens to carry concealed deadly weapons or to openly associate with disreputable women.

The tragic death of Mr. Suter should be a lesson not soon forgotten, and the discussion which the tragedy produced may have a good effect. If every man arrested for carrying concealed deadly weapons is punished as the law directs there will be fewer murders and homicides in Louisville in the future. The officers of the law should see to it that the statute is enforced by the offender being sent to jail for thirty days. A few examples would have a salutary effect. Judge McCann, of the Police Court, will receive the praise of the entire community if he will send every offender to jail who is convicted in his court of carrying concealed deadly weapons. This he has been doing since the tragedy mentioned above.

THE FEDERATION.

The meeting of the Jefferson County Federation of Catholic Societies in conjunction with the State Federation last Sunday demonstrated the active interest the Catholic societies of Louisville and Kentucky are taking in the coming meeting of the American Federation in Detroit next week. The delegates assembled here last Sunday were high class men and leading citizens in the Commonwealth. The delegates to Detroit are also men of ability and well fitted for the duties they are to perform. This meeting of the Federation will be the most important one ever held in this country, and Catholic societies generally will be interested in the proceedings, which will have wide publicity. The meeting will do great good to Catholic societies generally.

TOM TAGGART'S ELECTION.

The election of Thomas Taggart as Chairman of the National Democratic Committee is highly pleasing to his friends, not only in Indiana but in Kentucky as well. Mr. Taggart is an Irishman who has worked his way up from a humble position in society to eminence. He is a politician of a high order, and with him at the head of the Democratic Committee the party will stand a better show of winning than for many years past. Chairman Taggart is to be congratulated on his success in winning over such strong opposition from the East. The election of Urey Woodson as Secretary is also a high honor for Kentucky.

The Western Watchman says the success of the late conference of Catholic colleges, seminaries and schools which was held in St. Louis was largely due to the hearty and wholesome co-operation of the Jesuits. There was a full representation from their colleges, and their co-operation consisted of most of the hard work and all the expenses. The whole conference were the guests of the St. Louis University during the three days of their stay, and when the honors were passed around they "passed." The notable feature of the gathering was the marked respect and good will shown to the Catholic University and its rector. This is as it should be.

We heartily agree with Father Phelan, who has this to say in the Western Watchman: "In his address before the conference of Catholic colleges and seminaries Archbishop Glennon said Catholic education suffered two great drawbacks. One was lack of means and the other want of advertising. We are not doing all we would like to do for want of money, and what we do is not known to the mass of the people, and to those who might be induced to assist the cause, because we persist in hiding our light under a bushel. We are doing all we can to remedy the latter evil."

Hats off to Hager and Haley, heads of the Democratic Committee.

SOCIETY.

Mrs. M. J. Doyle and children are home from St. Louis.

Will Haurly left Thursday for a ten days' visit to the World's Fair.

Misses Birdie and Mary Coady are in St. Louis seeing the World's Fair.

Misses Anna and Gertrude Dowling spent a delightful week with relatives at Fairfield.

Misses Emma Gensler and Emma Wachtel leave Monday for a visit to the World's Fair.

Will Norton, the well-known traveling salesman, spent the first part of the week at West Baden.

Mrs. Matt O'Doherty and Miss Kathleen Ewing will leave next week for Grayson Springs.

Miss Mary Boland, of New Albany, will leave Monday for Pittsburg to visit relatives for a month.

Misses Clara and Ruth O'Connor were two of this week's most attractive visitors at West Baden Springs.

Miss Maggie Conghliu left Monday to spend two weeks visiting friends in St. Louis and the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace McPhie have returned home, after a delightful trip to New York and Atlantic City.

John J. Shelley, of the Kentucky wagon works, is enjoying a ten days' vacation at West Baden Springs.

Miss Beadie Hannon and Miss Mollie Collins sail today for Europe, and will spend most of the summer in Paris.

Miss Maggie Judge and niece, Miss Cross, have returned from St. Louis, after spending two weeks at the Exposition.

Madame Grunder and Miss Annie McGill sailed last Saturday for Europe. They go direct to London and later will visit Paris.

Miss Lillian Burke, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Lieut. Edward Burke, left Tuesday for an extended visit with friends at Hopkinsville.

John Cassilly entertained a number of friends at his home Thursday evening. After a pleasant hour an elegant supper was served by his amiable wife.

Michael T. Callahan, the well known salesman, is visiting in St. Louis as the guest of his sister, Mrs. John Tierney, and is seeing the World's Fair during his stay.

Mrs. Liza Jamison, widow of the late Jack Jamison and aunt of James A. Ross, who died last Saturday morning, is dangerously ill at her home, 619 West St. Catherine street.

Miss Abbie Walton, of Chicago; Miss Mary Corcoran and Miss Cynthia Webster, of Covington, were visiting here the past week as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Chaw, of 1114 Sixth street.

Patrick T. Sullivan arrived home Tuesday from St. Louis, where he was a delegate to the Hibernian convention. While in the World's Fair city he visited many relatives whom he had never before seen.

Mrs. Philip McGovern, wife of the well known letter carrier, is expected home the first of next week from New York City, where she has been having an enjoyable visit with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Mackey, of West Market street, have just returned home from a most delightful trip to St. Louis and the World's Fair. They also attended the sessions of the Hibernian national convention.

George Huchey, formerly with Patrick Donnelly at Seventeenth and Bank streets, arrived home Tuesday morning after spending two months prospecting in Arizona. He says the talk about fortunes easily made there is all a myth, and hereafter old Kentucky will be good enough for him.

Little Miss Susie Connelly, of the Highlands, entertained her juvenile friends Sunday afternoon in honor of her seventh birthday, and the occasion was made most enjoyable through the hospitality of Mrs. Connelly. Those present were Misses Helen Winkler, Eva Forster, Mary Lee Cullen, Margaret Eynlin, Caroline Noll, Margaret Connelly, Mary Mulaney, Susie and Martine Connelly, Masters Martin Mulaney, Brown Cullen, Arthur Graser, Fred Miller and Karl Myers.

GEORGE BUTLER

Given Rousing Reception by Local Hibernians Thursday Night.

The Hibernians of Louisville, men and women, thronged Hibernian Hall Thursday night to do honor to George J. Butler, who was last Saturday elected a member of the National Board of Directors of the Ancient Order of Hibernians during the greatest Irish convention that was ever held in the United States. There was indeed a brilliant assemblage when Thomas Keenan, Kentucky's State President, announced the purpose for which they were there—to share the honor and express their delight over the election of the State Secretary to the national body.

County President Patrick Sullivan, who placed Kentucky's son in nomination, was then introduced. Words could not express his anxiety, he said, while the vote was being counted, and when the result was announced his joy was unbounded. While Kentucky had not as large a delegation as other States, none received more attention while on the floor of the convention than did her representatives. They had pledged themselves to double the membership within two years, and he therefore closed with an earnest plea for the assistance of all friends of the order. He eulogized the work of the convention, the official proceedings of which will soon be issued.

Mrs. Lawrence J. Mackey, who represented the Ladies' Auxiliary, expressed herself as greatly impressed with all that transpired at the convention. She was shown special honors by the New Hampshire delegation and attended all the sessions. Her story of the banquet and the doings of McGinn, Keenan, Sullivan, Cusick and her husband created much laughter. Her address was one of the hits of the evening.

Miss Julia Kelly next rendered a vocal solo that was well received, as did also Thomas Keenan, Jr., and Willie O'Keefe. Mrs. A. N. Cunningham's rendition of Irish selections on the piano created unbounded enthusiasm and proved a feature of the evening.

Others who expressed themselves happy to congratulate the National Director were State Secretary Joe McGinn, James Barry, James Coleman, Newton G. Rogers, Tom Dolan, William M. Higgins, Dr. W. J. McCann, David O'Connell and Dr. Mich. Casper.

Before the introduction of the National Director Mrs. Genevieve O'Connor gave one of the best recitations ever heard in the hall, holding her hearers spellbound until the last word had been uttered.

The appearance of Mr. Butler was the signal for a tremendous outburst of applause, which lasted some time. When he left home, he said, he only desired the re-election of President James Dolan and Treasurer O'Brien, but it would be folly to say that he did not appreciate from the bottom of his heart the high honor conferred on him. His election was due in a great measure to the earnest efforts of ex-Director O'Connor, of Georgia, and the work of Messrs. Patrick Sullivan, Joe McGinn and Martin Cusick. Mr. Butler declared he had entered actively upon his duties and pledged himself to render a good account when his term expired.

Altogether the occasion was a most happy one. It is believed that it will inaugurate a renewed life in the order and that the pledges made will be faithfully kept.

An abundance of light refreshments were served during the evening and cigars were distributed before the adjournment.

SALESMEN

Will Take Their Friends On a Pleasant Outing to Jasper.

The Salesmen's Union of this city has made extensive preparations for their excursion to Jasper, Ind., and a day's outing on Calumet Lake, which takes place on Sunday, August 7. This excursion will be on the order of those given by the Catholic Knights of America and the Knights of St. John during the two last years. This will be the only one given this season, therefore those of our readers who desire to see the St. Joseph's church, about the magnitude and beauty of which so much has been written, should embrace this opportunity, the round trip fare being only a dollar.

At the lake a bountiful dinner will be served and ample arrangements have been made for the proper entertainment of a large crowd. The salesmen are popular with all classes, therefore they have reason to hope this will be the best and most successful excursion of the year. They will leave the Seventh-street depot on a special train at 7:30 in the morning and arrive home at a seasonable hour.

SEES THE FAIR.

Charles Weissenberger, head of Bacon's advertising department, left Thursday for St. Louis and the World's Fair, where he will spend his vacation, after a busy and strenuous season of work. Before returning he will visit one of the rest resorts for a week.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

The Louisville Council of the Knights of Columbus will hold the annual complimentary reunion of members and their wives, sweethearts and friends at Fern Grove on Tuesday, August 9. The "Caseys" look forward to this event with no little interest, as a jolly good time is prepared for those so fortunate as to be invited to be with them. The boat will leave the wharf at 8:30 in the morning.

XAVIERIAN BROTHERS

Are Valued by Their Superior General and Provincial General.

Brother James and the Xavierian Brothers have with them at St. Xavier's College on East Broadway a distinguished visitor in the person of Rev. Brother Chrysostom, Superior General of the Congregations of the Xavierian Brotherhood throughout the world. The Superior General arrived here Tuesday with Rev. Brother Dominic, Provincial General in this country, with headquarters in Baltimore. Brother Chrysostom comes from Bruges, Belgium, and is on a tour of inspection of the American colleges conducted by the Xavierian order, of which there are hundreds, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and of which St. Xavier's in this city is one of the best. Brother Dominic will accompany the Superior General on his American tour, which will not be completed for several months. The visitors expressed themselves highly pleased with their college in Louisville and spoke highly of Brother James and his assistants and their management.

LAFAYETTE COUNCIL

Hustling For the Presidency of the Kentucky Jurisdiction.

A special to the Kentucky Irish American says Lafayette Council, Y. M. I., is doing some lively hustling just now. At the Grand Council to be held at Lexington they intend capturing the office of Grand President of the Kentucky Jurisdiction. Since the organization of the Kentucky Jurisdiction Newport has not had the honor.

The members of Lafayette claim they have a man capable in every way for the Presidency, one who has served the Grand Council three years, been President of their council two years, and is a charter member. He is Dr. Joseph A. Reardon, First Vice President of the Grand Council, who is known throughout the State as a representative Catholic, a professional man of ability, and one to whom the Y. M. I. will be proud to point as their leader.

MADE A PRIEST.

Rev. Andrew Brady Ordained by Bishop McCloskey at Cathedral.

The Rev. Andrew Brady, nephew of Rev. Father Brady, of St. Cecilia's, was ordained at the Cathedral last Monday morning. The impressive ceremony was conducted by the Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey, assisted by Vicar General Cronin and Rev. Dr. Schumann.

Father Brady is a graduate of Bishop McQuaid's seminary at Rochester, and is a young priest of great promise. Following the ordination a reception was held in the rectory of the Cathedral, where many friends called to congratulate him. Father Brady has been given a charge out in the State.

RECENT DEATHS.

Cornelius McDonough, sixty-three years old, died Thursday morning at his home, 1918 Todd street. He was a native of Ireland but many years ago came to Louisville, locating in the West End. The funeral will take place this morning from St. Patrick's church.

The funeral of Florence Elizabeth, infant daughter of Frank and Emma Bloemer, of Seventeenth and Gallagher streets, took place Monday afternoon. The most sincere sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

Solemn services marked the funeral of Mrs. Christina Wessels last Tuesday morning at St. Mary's church, where for years she had been a pious and devout communicant. Mrs. Wessels was well known and highly respected in the West End, where she had lived for many years. The news of her death was received with expressions of profound sorrow. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Henry Nadoff.

The numerous friends of Albert F. Senn, son of Frank and Cecilia Senn, 1916 Fifteenth street, learned of his death last Sunday night with feelings of profound sorrow, as his sterling traits of character were recognized in both business and social circles. Deceased was only twenty-one years old, and the future held forth bright prospects. His funeral took place Wednesday morning from St. Peter's church, the interment being in St. Michael's cemetery.

Mrs. Bridget Moran, widow of Michael Moran, an old and highly esteemed resident of New Albany, was stricken with paralysis Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Lee, 1215 Dewey street. The stroke was quickly fatal and she died at 7 o'clock in the evening. Mrs. Moran was sixty-eight years old, and leaves four children—Detective Edward Moran, of this city; Mrs. Daniel Walsh, Mrs. Edward Lee and Mrs. Maggie Hopkins, of New Albany. Deceased was a devout member of Holy Trinity Catholic church, where the funeral services were largely attended Wednesday morning. Rev. Father Kelly celebrating the solemn mass of requiem.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

President Clark authorizes the Kentucky Irish American to announce the appointment of the following gentlemen as members of the State Executive Committee of the Federation of Catholic Societies: James B. Kelly, of Louisville; Chairman; Leo Hayden, of Paducah; Patrick T. Sullivan, of Louisville; Gerald Connolly, of Newport; Michael Reicher, of Louisville, and F. W. Clark, Jr., of Paducah. There yet remains one more to be appointed, and the honor will probably go to Marion county.

RECONCILIATION

Has Been Effected Between Rival Central Labor Bodies.

The senseless fight that has existed for ten years or more between the various factions in the labor movement is thought now to be at an end, a reconciliation having been effected at a meeting held Monday night. By the terms of the agreement the disturbers of the past will be ineligible to membership, and only bona fide labor organizations and delegates working at their trades will be recognized. If this agreement is faithfully carried out there will be no further disunion. The union of the factions was based on the suggestions of John Lennon and Thomas Tracy, who were here representing the American Federation of Labor.

The new body, which will be known as the Louisville Federation of Labor, at once decided to celebrate the settlement of differences by having a big Labor day parade and picnic of all the unions on Monday, September 5. It is now expected that all labor organizations will affiliate with the Federation, and this means the extermination of the politico-vest pocket organization delegates, who are a bane and injury to the labor movement. With half the effort that has been wasted in fighting put forth for organization Louisville labor would have advanced to a marked degree.

VATICAN REPLIES.

The Holy Father Will Not Agree to Demands of France.

A Rome cablegram says that, according to the Patria, an answer to the French Government with regard to the relations between it and the Vatican has been formulated at a meeting of the Cardinals. This answer, which will be sent to Foreign Minister Delcasse, says that the Pope can not agree to the demands of the French Government without surrendering the Papal rights. The Italia says that as soon as the answer reaches Minister Delcasse the Pope will address a circular to all the Catholic Powers, fully explaining the situation.

Under date of July 27 the Associated Press says the reply of the Holy See to the last note of the French Government was handed to the French representative there yesterday and is now on its way to Paris, where it is expected to arrive tomorrow evening. Although there are many conjectures as to the nature of the reply, nothing official regarding it has been given out.

TAKES ITALIAN BRIDE.

News reached this city Tuesday that Antonio Montedonico, one of Louisville's wealthiest and best known Italians, who has been visiting his native land for six weeks, had taken unto himself another bride. The couple had left for this country and are expected to arrive in Louisville next week.

GETS GOOD PLACE.

Frank Martin, who just graduated from St. John's school under the supervision of Very Rev. Father Bax, has been given a place as record clerk with the Louisville & Nashville at Ninth and Broadway. He is a promising boy, and his father, Albert F. Martin, very justly feels proud of him.

TRINITY COUNCIL.

Trinity Council, Y. M. I., held an important meeting Monday night, though there was an unusually large attendance of members. Applications were received and reports heard from those interested in the special trip to Lexington next month.

HINTS ON STYLE.

Accordion plaited gowns continue in demand for evening wear and are especially in demand for young girls.

The variety and the number of shepherd's plaid walking costumes, especially in black and white, are fairly bewildering.

One of the peculiarities of the summer coats is that most of them have their sleeves lined with taffeta, but the other parts of the coat are left unlined.

The subdued and dull plaids and checks, of which a few only have been seen here, are distinctly Parisian and have been much worn by fashionable Frenchwomen.

The new mohairs show plaid as well as striped effects, and the plaiding is done in the waiving and not by the admixture of another color. Black, blue and brown are the hues most fashionable. Many of them have long skirted coats and vests of suede, pique or silk.

A new green in materials for autumn and winter frocks is much like hunters' green, only several shades lighter. The darker shades are to have the preference, and in these the browns, navys, grays and this new green will be favorites. As to the materials themselves, broadcloth, zibelines, prunellas, cashmeres, jacquards, voiles, crepes and colliennes are being ordered in quantities.

Advance notes from Paris indicate that monotonous are to be the coming things in gown materials, and that the accessories will be in different shades of the color adopted for the costumes. In millinery the deeper shade of the three or five colors selected for the hat corresponds to color of the material chosen for the gown foundation. This is the rule for the very exclusive and in time affects the general gown-wearing public.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

Dr. Biggs, a well known educationalist, was drowned at Enniskillen.

Gaelic students will be glad to learn that it is proposed to issue a series of reproductions of Irish manuscripts in the Bodleian Library.

In opening the County Clare summer assizes at Ennis Justice Gibson, in charging the jury, referred to the marked increase of crime in the county during the past six months.

At the Potrush decorative art exhibit Sir Horace Plunkett delivered a speech recommending drawing on the old Celtic design to make modern Irish products distinctively characteristic of the country.

The Munster Training College, which is intended for the preparation of national teachers who are native Irish speakers as teachers of the Irish language, has been formally opened at Ballynagary, County Cork.

The number of entries at the annual show under the auspices of the Armagh Agricultural Association was the largest on record, and the show was the best that has ever taken place. A very successful show was also held at Thurles.

At the Galway quarter sessions decrees for rent were granted against a number of tenants on the Kilmacduagh estate of Walter Shawe Taylor, whose eldest son, Capt. John Shawe Taylor, was Secretary of the Land Commission.

The recent Limerick Industrial exhibition, opened by the Mayor, is a notable achievement of the Limerick Industrial Association formed a couple of years ago for the support of Irish industries. Forty-nine various Limerick products were on show.

At the Clare assizes John Walsh was charged with the murder of John Behan at Doonbeg, during a quarrel, Behan dying from the effects of kicks. He was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labor.

A young man named John O'Connell, whilst cycling along a public road between Fealesbridge and Brossna, County Kerry, was suddenly set upon by a dog which came in contact with the machine precipitating the rider head foremost on the road, where he lay for a considerable time unconscious. The machine was partially broken and the rider received a nasty wound on the head.

Information has been received from Rome of the appointment of Very Rev. M. Fogarty, D. D., Vice President of St. Patrick's College, Maynooth, to the vacant See of Killaloe. The new Bishop-elect was a dignified member of the list of three names chosen by the parish priests of the diocese for submission to the Holy See. Dr. Fogarty is still in the prime of life. He is another addition to the ranks of the young Irish Bishops who are still within the zone of the energetic forties.

Martin Reilly, of Galway, one of the last of the old Irish traditional pipers, was buried recently. This old man of seventy-four years was a marvelous performer on the pipes and a fingered phenomenon. From his master and namesake he picked up Gandsey's method of playing, for Gandsey was very prime among pipers, whose playing elicited the warmest admiration from all visitors to Killarney during the first half of the last century. Not many who heard Reilly give the "Fox Chase" were aware that he reproduced Gandsey's effects with marvelous fidelity; but Gandsey himself learned this glorious piece of "programme music" from Edward Keating Hyland in 1820. Hyland died in 1845, but Gandsey survived until 1857, in his nineteenth year. The greatest of the school of Galway pipers was Paddy Conely, who was presented with Crumpp's magnificent pipes by James Hardman, the historian of Galway.

HAND BADLY HURT.

Sister Harmonia, Mother Superior of St. Edward's Hospital, New Albany, sustained a painful mangled hand Tuesday. She was operating a washing machine in the wash room of the hospital, and accidentally let her hand get caught in the cogs of the rollers. The member was drawn into the machine up to the wrist, the bones being badly crushed and the little finger pulled from the hand. The hospital surgeon was called and dressed the injured member, and though suffering much pain Sister Harmonia has hopes that she will soon recover its use.

RETURNS TO SEYMOUR.

Rev. Father Connor, rector of St. Ambrose church at Seymour, Ind., who has been visiting Rev. J. F. Hildebrand at the rectory of St. Mary's of the Knobs, near New Albany, will today return to his charge. His visit was a pleasant one and afforded him much needed rest.

last judgment, He will say to those on His right, "Come to Me, you blessed, for when I was hungry you gave Me to eat; when I was naked you clothed Me; when I was in prison you visited Me," and these chosen ones will say, "Lord, when did we give Thee to eat, and when did we clothe Thee; when did we give Thee to drink, when did we visit Thee?" And Jesus will say, "So long as you did it to the least of My humble ones, you did it to Me. Enter into eternal life." This is the truth that I wish to convey. You may go on a silent visit to some poor family, and you may give them an alms, but it is not the poor man whom you are visiting, or to whom you are giving the alms; it is to Jesus Christ himself, who values that more than if you had given thousands of dollars. He loves the humble and the lowly. Therefore be of good cheer, my brothers, and persevere to the end. It will be an unfortunate day if any one of you depart from your loyalty to the St. Vincent de Paul Society. I say to you once more solemnly, and I may say by prophecy, if you will pardon me for using the word, it will be a fortunate day for any one of us if as Vincentians we have "taken hold of the plow and stop to look back." Live a Vincentian and die in the brotherhood of St. Vincent de Paul, whatever may happen to you. You may become unfortunate, you may go astray, but hold fast to the society. Be in it in spirit even though you have no brothers around you and can not attend the meetings. Go out on the street and, even if you have not a nickel in your pocket, give a kind word, an encouraging word, a crust of bread, but whatever you do, be true to the society, and any one who is true to the society will never be lost. I promise it to you here in the presence of the All Holy that this society will bring to yourselves, to your families, seven-fold reward in this world and a holy and happy death.

And now, be refreshed, take the Body of Jesus Christ, for whom you visit here this morning. Some of you have come a long distance and under great inconvenience. Offer up that sacrifice to Him, for you have done it for Him. He will delight your hearts, will rouse your hearts and animate your hearts. He will give you new life, new love, new spirit. He will make you better fathers and brothers in every respect. You will go from here glad and rejoicing. You will go the friends of God, the friends of Jesus Christ. After having been refreshed by the body of Jesus and His sacred blood, then put on the joy of Jesus Christ and give Him thanks. Go out, stand under those tents and drink a cup of coffee. Consider yourselves as poor men, and give it to yourselves as poor men; commune with one another, be brothers in spirit and brothers in God, and may God bless you all and your holy communion.

The general meeting was held in St. Francis' Hall in the afternoon and was graced by the presence of Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey and Father Rock, both of whom addressed the followers of St. Vincent de Paul, of whom there were about 500 present.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Milwaukee now has 520 members of the order.

Next comes the State convention. Then let us have a field day.

Division 1 of Bayonne, N. J., will soon celebrate the attainment of a membership of 200.

Kentucky Hibernians are elated over the election of President Dolan and Treasurer O'Brien.

At a meeting held recently at Bordentown, N. J., the degrees were conferred upon thirty-four candidates.

The national convention donated $2,000 to the Gaelic League, to be used in forwarding the Irish language movement.

State President Keenan, State Treasurer Butler and James Barry were given a cordial welcome Tuesday night and each had to tell about the national convention.

The national body did the right thing in continuing P. J. Halligan at the head of the National Hibernian. He should be kept there and he better paid for his invaluable services.

Rev. Father Larkin, pastor of St. Bridget's church, was the representative of the Memphis Hibernians in the national convention. There were also many other priest delegates.

Mike Tynan, Peter Cusick, Joe Dougherty and young Tom Keenan were in their places Tuesday night at the meeting of Division 1. John L. Sullivan was again reported on the sick list.

The changes in the laws will not be published until the arrival of the new constitutions. The most important was that relating to the election of State officers, which must take place yearly hereafter.

At the last regular meeting of the County Board held in Cincinnati Michael J. Barry, County President, was endorsed for the State Presidency of Ohio. The convention will be held in Youngstown in August.

Attorney Tom Walsh, speaking of the national convention, said we have ample reason to feel proud of our own. "We run on like the brook forever, and increase in numbers, finance and power as time goes on."

Wilkesbarre members of the order are deeply interested in the project adopted by the Lackawanna County Board to provide an insurance fund to furnish not only ample investment policies, but also to give care to the old and infirm members.

State President Jerry Sullivan expects a large attendance at the State convention to be held at Sioux City the latter part of September, as considerable work has been done in the past year in organizing divisions in the principal towns and Irish settlements of Iowa.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

People Arranging For Their Great World's Fair Excursion.

Already large numbers of people have begun preparations for the Catholic Knights' great World's Fair excursion to St. Louis. Charles Hill sold the first ticket, which was purchased by Thomas Feeley. The committee meets weekly and the reports received are very encouraging. Much advertising has been arranged for, and the bill and cards will be soon seen everywhere. The trip will be the cheapest of the year—only $15 for railroad fare and hotel bill.

BASKET PICNIC.

All that is needed is fair weather Tuesday next and a big crowd will accompany Mackin Council to Sugar Grove for an old-fashioned basket picnic. There will be various kinds of amusements and a reunion of the old and young friends of the council. The steamer Sunshine has been chartered and will leave the Port-lard wharf at 9 o'clock in the morning. Charles Ralby and an able committee will be in charge. They hope to realize a nice sum to be used for furnishings for the new club house.

MOURN HIS DEATH.

James A. Ross Stricken While Performing Work of Mercy.

With feelings of sincere sorrow the Kentucky Irish American chronicles the death of one of its most earnest friends and advocates, James A. Ross, who was stricken while in the performance of one of the works of mercy—burying the dead. On returning home on Wednesday of last week from the funeral of his friend, Michael Grogan, he complained of feeling ill, and continued to grow worse until Saturday morning, when his soul passed peacefully away. James A. Ross came to this country twenty-two years ago, when but a mere boy. He hailed from the County Longford, the home of Oliver Goldsmith, one of the dearest and brightest names in English literature. At the age of twelve years he went to work for the Messrs. Meagel, with whom he remained until ten years ago. Ambitious to be independent, he embarked in the grocery business at Eighth and St. Catherine streets, and at every step since success was his and a dame fortune kind. But now a change has come. Life's bitter foe, Cold Death, entered his door, and what victory hast thou won, what laurels are thine, to take from home, wife and children, a dear, kind and affectionate father, who by his great heart and close observance of duty was a model? What sad thoughts arise in the minds of those he has left behind when they think he had to leave them and pitch his tent in the quiet burial ground of St. Louis cemetery, where he now peacefully sleeps.

What a volume of sweet thoughts and tender memories of noble deeds arise in the minds and hearts of the bereft friends. From his quiet home center of influence his power of mercy and kindness was as far-reaching as the beams of the candle upon the dark and troublesome world. None ever went to him with the world's trials but that consideration was given, and with such sincerity and tender love as to betoken the presence of an earthly saint. His life was one that did honor to God and glorified his race.

"Oh, cruel death, how couldst thou so desire

On such short notice to take an upright sire?

Why steal upon him as the thief thou art,

To plant thy sickle in his generous heart?

Oh, cruel death, take up thy record, Treachery is in all thy work."

Truly may it be said, in the words of the poet, that "every heart best knoweth its own loss," and James Ross' death has made a void that nothing can fill save the consciousness of the happy exchange he has made and the joy of reunion with his loved ones in the shade of the blessed.

In our departed friend were blended the finer and nobler sensibilities of a manly man, who was both by natural endowment and personal attainment a figure in whatever sphere he moved. Honest with himself, therefore honest with others, these traits made his friends steadfast to him in sunshine and cloud.

James Ross left a wife and four children to mourn his loss, besides an aged mother, who is inconsolable, and three sisters and a brother. All pray that God may give them strength to bear their heavy loss, and that they may find solace in the words of Rev. Father Twohig, for it is a consolation to them to know that he received every blessing his church could bestow, and strengthened as he was by the graces of God, his soul has gone from the heaven bound on earth to the heaven won for eternity.

The funeral Monday morning was one of the largest ever seen at the Dominican church, from whence the remains were tenderly borne to their last resting place by Messrs. Thomas Muldoon, Harry Crotty, James McKiernan, Andrew Meagher, Thomas Campbell and John Campbell. May his soul rest in peace.

FOUND BAD STATE.

Labor Inspector Scally After Employers of Little Children.

State Labor Inspector Thomas Scally, who returned last week from a tour of inspection of portions of the State, says he was somewhat disappointed over the conditions he found existing in a number of places in Paducah. The law, he said, was being openly violated and numbers of little children were employed in doing work that should be performed by men. Inspector Scally's visit was unexpected, and he therefore found the situation as it really existed. In all cases violators of the State labor laws were warned to desist, otherwise they would be prosecuted, and as a result situations have been made for a number of men able and eager to work. The condition in Louisville is very satisfactory, but there are a few who would ignore the law were it not for the zeal displayed by our State Labor Inspector. Child labor should be abolished except in those cases where found absolutely necessary. The rising generation would then have an education and become more intelligent and better citizens.

'SQUIRE ADAMS BETTER.

The many friends of 'Squire John Adams, of the West End magisterial district, are glad to see him on the bench again. He was ill for a week and was threatened with typhoid fever.

CLOSING CONCERTS.

For the closing attraction of this very successful summer season at the Jockey Club Park Manager James B. Camp will present by far the best of them all in the great band of Creators. By many of the foremost musical authorities it is declared to be the best band in the world. Surely no band has attracted as much attention or has been in such demand. For over one hundred nights in New York it packed the theater nightly and on the road the attendance has been wonderful. In getting the band for a week Manager Camp has done what many other managers have tried in vain to do. A limited number of seats will be reserved at fifty cents, but Mr. Camp gained his point in the controversy about the prices to be charged and the general admission will remain as at present and will be but twenty-five cents. The engagement will begin Monday night and will be concluded with two concerts on Saturday and two on Sunday, July 31. At the two matinee popular prices will be charged, yet two of the most delightful programmes of the series will be rendered. Creators' band is even more powerful this season than when last heard in Louisville. The soprano soloist is Mme. Joanna Baril, who has a high soprano voice of great sweetness and smoothness. The harp soloist is Signor C. Sodero, said to be the best in the world. He will be heard at all of the concerts.

The Haskell Indian band will conclude its successful engagement with concerts this afternoon and evening and Sunday afternoon and night. Popular programmes will be rendered and at the Saturday matinee the Indians will give several of their native dances for the benefit of the women and children.

YELLOWSTONE PARK TOUR.

Every Expense Included in Ticket—Personally Conducted Party.

The only exclusive Yellowstone Park excursion from this section in 1904 will be run by the Monon, Chicago & North-western and Northern Pacific railways, leaving Cincinnati, Louisville and Indianapolis on Wednesday, August 3. The train will be called "The Yellowstone Park Special" and will be composed of Pullman palace sleepers, dining and baggage cars. It will run to Yellowstone Park and return without change, although stops for sightseeing will be made at several places. All expenses will be included in the ticket and everything furnished will be first-class. An illustrated folder telling all about the tour can be had by calling on or addressing E. H. Bacon, District Passenger Agent, Monon route, Fourth and Market streets, Louisville.
